Guest Columnist: John Hopkins, Director of Music

Dear Friends,

There is a well-worn saying, "Singing is like praying twice". And we sing often, at restaurants, ballgames, and even at concerts. (In the early 70's, I played piano at a club called "The Red Garter", which was packed with patrons singing many familiar songs). But when we enter the church today, we become quite shy and soft. It's been 50 years since Vatican II encouraged us all to participate fully in the Mass, yet for many of us, we still feel awkward when asked to sing.

During my childhood days in Wilmette, although I attended St. Francis Xavier School, our family attended St. Augustine's Episcopal Church. I grew up surrounded by protestant congregations singing loudly with full voice, and I remember my dad had his own copy of the hymnbook in which he kept tally marks of the hymns sung each week. But Mass at St. Francis was celebrated by the priest who sang in Latin, and the organist who sang the responses also in Latin. I actually began my music career at St. Francis singing back the responses to the priest, Father Myles McDonald.

Since that time, there have been many revisions and publications of hymnbooks, all containing old standards as well as newly composed contemporary songs. I could list dozens of songs as "favorites", but to this day, I continue to look for ways to make the songs as familiar as possible with the hope that others in the congregation will join in and sing along. Our psalms often have a contemporary setting, and as I choose hymns every week, I gladly will take requests. Be sure and let me know if you have a favorite, and if you feel like singing, please don't be shy. It will make you feel invigorated and happy inside! It's good for the soul!

Peace,
John Hopkins

Thank you!

Thank you to all who have so generously contributed to the Saints JFX Christmas collection. We are rapidly approaching our targeted goal. We are still gratefully accepting donations via check or at Givecentral.org.

Thank you also for your overwhelming response to our request for donations to pay for the new boiler for SFX Church. In a matter of weeks we collected funds to not only pay for the new boiler, but also for the use of the generator and temporary heater. The new boiler has been installed and we are grateful for a warm church!

Thank you for your constant and generous support of our great parish.

Happy New Year!

Liturgical Ministries at Saints JFX

Sacristan

Whenever you attend a weekend Mass, you will see members of the laity assisting the celebrant in the sanctuary—altar servers, lectors, Eucharistic Ministers, and a cantor. Each has a specific role to play at Mass, and each has been trained for that role.

However, there is another person who also has a specific role, but it is someone you might not always see, or at least not as often as those mentioned above. That person is the sacristan, the behind-the-scenes person who is responsible for making sure all is ready for the Mass when the celebrant arrives in the sacristy. Among other things, the sacristan prepares all sacred vessels (celebrant chalice, ciborium with hosts), makes sure there are enough hosts both in the Tabernacle and the ciboria, puts out the books used at Mass (lectionary, Roman Missal, Book of Gospels, celebrant and lector binders), checks to make sure the microphones are working, places on the credence table a cruet for water and the lavabo dish and towel for washing the fingers of the celebrant, lights the altar candles, turns on all lights, starts the livestream, and on and on. As you can see, there is a great attention to detail.

Although I have concentrated on the role of the sacristan at weekend masses, that person is also present at funerals and weddings with additional responsibilities. Of course, there is a sacristan at each daily Mass. This is definitely a team effort. It would be very difficult for one person to be present at all these masses, especially since we have two churches in our parish. As a result, we have several sacristans (about a dozen) who handle these tasks.

We are looking for additional parishioners to act as sacristans, either on a regular basis or as a sub. We especially need people who are available to sub when a regular sacristan is not able to be present. This includes around Christmas and Easter. We will offer plenty of training, including on-the-job training during Mass. A list of specific responsibilities will be given to each sacristan. This is a wonderful opportunity to do the “Lord’s work in the vineyard”. If you have an interest in becoming a sacristan or simply would like additional information, please contact me.

Thank you.
